CMDR. Russell Corrects Biographic Information; Delighted with 'Day'

By SAM PENDERGRAST
Editor of The Sun

COMMANDER Kay Russell talked to his mother, Mrs. Gertrude Russell of Corsicana, by telephone this morning and tidied up some items of information about his background bandied about by exuberant friends and neighbors and the press.

But he is delighted with the idea of a "Kay Russell Day" in his "hometown", and he is looking forward to seeing old friends, Mrs. Russell reported to The Daily Sun.

Yes, he is a Navy commander—has been for about four years. He was promoted from lieutenant commander while he was still in a jungle prison in North Vietnam, and he may not have known of the promotion until he arrived at Clark Air Force Base in the Philippines following his release last month, his mother thinks. (She knew about the promotion, but she's been on "Cloud Nine" so much since word was received that Kay was coming home, she just hadn't thought to correct the title used in news stories.)

AND KAY WAS "FLATTERED" about being called a graduate of Navarro Junior College—but he isn't.

He went immediately into Rice University after graduation from Corsicana High School in 1952.

In a way, though, he can be considered an "ex" of NJC, since he often practiced with the NJC band while he was a high school student. Always a musical enthusiast, he even played with the NJC band at football games.

"One of the Garden Club members called and said they wanted to plant a tree at NJC in honor of Kay," Mrs. Russell told The Sun, "and I told her he wasn't a graduate but he would certainly be honored."

Asked how Kay is "getting along" on American soil for the first time in seven years, Mrs. Russell reported the long-time prisoner of war is in "great shape". He is taking treatments for an allergy—in fact, he was due for a medical appointment in eight minutes as he got in one of his frequent telephone conversations with his mother—but he is otherwise fine.

Of the "psychological adjustment" for which massive groundwork was laid by the military authorities and about which many observers had considerable fears for such long-term prisoners, Mrs. Russell agreed that Kay's adjustment had been speedy and effective.

"IT WAS AN EMOTIONAL THING for the first four or five days, though," she admits, recalling that members of the family had to keep reminding themselves they weren't dreaming in the first days following Kay's release.

She spent a month with Kay and his family (wife Kay and two children), and Kay's brother Charles and his family of Andrews, Tex., stayed in California about a week.

What's next for Kay?

Following the visit in Corsicana during the week of May 14—when he will be honored by friends and neighbors and local institutions during "Kay Russell Day" May 15—there are trips planned to Houston and to his wife's home in Iowa.

When his medical analysis and treatment is completed, he will begin a 90-day furlough.

A veteran of 17 years in the Navy this July, he intends to stay in the service and would like to continue work on a doctor of philosophy degree. In addition to his bachelor's degree from Rice, he holds a master's degree in "operations analysis" from the Naval school at Monterrey, Calif.

He would like to take up the study of history.

But, in the meantime, he's looking forward to the Corsicana homecoming the second week of May.

And he's much too busy enjoying his newfound freedom to be worried about a few flaws in biographical data.

Right Turn On Red Light To Be Legal

Corsicana traffic laws prohibit making a right turn on a red signal light after stopping, but that will be different for Corsicana and other Texas cities after Aug. 26 when a new state law becomes effective, Police Chief Don Massey said. A local radio station program erroneously indicated the new law was already in effect.

Under the City of Corsicana Traffic Code adopted July 21, 1964, the City prohibited right turns on red at intersections controlled by "red and green" stop and go signals under authority of state law then in existance.

The section dealing with this regulation in the Code, Sec. 18-27 Traffic Control Signal Legend, sub-section (c) Red Alone or "Stop," stipulates that vehicular traffic facing the "red" signal shall stop before entering the crosswalk.....and shall remain standing until green or 'GO' is shown alone."

One of the first bills of statewide significance to pass the 63rd Session of the Texas Legislature and be signed by Gov. Dolph Briscoe March 8 was one introduced by Rep. Charles Tupper of El Paso.

It makes legal right turns on red lights unless otherwise prohibited by law.

Chief Massey said state law supercedes Corsicana's ordinance (traffic code), but as he understands the new bill—although he hasn't received a copy of it—it authorizes a city to pass an ordinance prohibiting right turns on red. The City would have to put up signs at the particular intersection spelling out "No Right Turn On Red," he said.

Corsicana has 26 intersections regulated by "stop and go" traffic control signal lights. These are at intersections in the downtown business district (Main, Beaton and Commerce streets), and along State Highway 31 (East and West Seventh Avenues), State Highway 22 (parallelling 15th Street between West Seventh and West Second Avenues and along Second Avenue from North 15th Street west) and on U.S. Highway 75 (Seventh Street).

Chief Massey said after Aug. 26 when the new state law becomes effective, "and we have a chance to see how it works, it might be necessary to put up special signs prohibiting right turns after stopping on a red signal if this becomes a traffic problem."

The City Commission would have to spell this out and authorize installation of such signs. Chief Massey said it is his understanding of the new law that without signs being posted traffic would be free to make the turns as long as drivers exercise due caution and don't interfere with traffic moving on a green light or pedestrians in a crosswalk.

Until the new state law goes into effect, he reminded the public it is still "against the law" in Corsicana to make a right turn on red.

Federal School Funds Deferred

BY ROB MECKEL
Sun Staff Writer

Joe Lindsey, superintendent of the Corsicana Independent School District, said this morning the Department of Health, Education and Welfare has notified the local school system that final approval of any application to that department for federal funds for new programs and activities has been ordered deferred.

Lindsey said the notice came in a letter dated April 17 from Peter E. Holmes, director of the Office of Civil Rights of HEW. The superintendent said HEW contends that CISD is not in compliance with Title VI of the Civil Rights Act of 1964 which deals with school desegregation.

"After they study our program and we have an administrative hearing, they could hold up our federal funds—and probably would—if we are not in compliance," Lindsey commented.

The letter says "Based on a careful analysis of all available information, I have no alternative but to conclude that your present desegregation plan is not adequate and is not working effectively to accomplish the elimination of the vestiges of your dual school system. As efforts by the staff of this office to secure your compliance with the requirements of Title VI and the regulating by voluntary means have not been successful, I am referring this matter to the office of the General Counsel of this department with a request that administrative enforcement proceedings be initiated."

LINDSEY SAID THE LETTER notes that the Texas State Education Agency is also being notified by HEW that commitments of federal financial assistance for all new activities are "likewise to be deferred." These deferrals will remain in effect for not more than 90 days pending the completion of an administrative hearing between HEW and CISD officials, if such a hearing is requested, and the rendering of an initial decision, unless the time period is extended by mutual agreement, he indicated.

The Holmes letter also noted that each federal agency extending assistance to schools will be notified of the action taken against CISD, and "they will be given the opportunity to join the enforcement proceedings."

Lindsey said this morning he has not been informed whether Jerry Luck, the Washington, D.C., attorney assigned by HEW to assist CISD in the desegregation matter, will be visiting Corsicana today or Tuesday. He said the only thing he knows about the visit is that Luck was to have flown from Washington to Dallas over the weekend. Lindsey said he has not been contacted by Luck, who told school officials last week he plans to visit school buildings and study housing patterns and locationof railroads and highways in regard to the CISD school zones.

Lindsey commented this morning that an administrative hearing would help clear up the definition of exactly what is a "racially balanced" school. He said it appears that Lincoln Elementary School is the facility with a minority racial composition not in compliance with the Civil Rights Act of 1964, but nobody has come forth and provided a percentage figure on enrollment showing what would place the school within compliance.

FIGURES FOR SEPTEMBER ENROLLMENT provided by school administration officials today show there are no "white" students at Lincoln Elementary School. Student enrollment consists of 496 blacks and four Mexican-Americans.

At Bowie Elementary School there are four blacks in the predominantly white school with total student enrollment at 290. Only one black student attends regular classrooms, and the other three are in special education classes, according to Principal Tommy Wardell.

Enrollment figures at Lee Elementary School show 277 white and six black students enrolled.

At Fannin Elementary School, there are 285 students. These include 231 white, 49 black and five Mexican-American students.

Travis records show 216 whites, 61 blacks and 26 Mexican-Americans.

Of the total 338 student enrollment at Houston Elementary school, 52 per cent are white, 42 per cent black, and eight per cent Mexican-American, according to Principal C. E. Vickers.

First Time Around...

Corsicana firemen, on the first of their four calls to the old Paymaster Cotton Oil Mill Wednesday and Thursday, attempt to reach the flames at the top of the building. A ladder truck had to be brought in to get at the fire. The fire was believed to have been started by a cutting torch used by demolition workers. (Sun Staff Photo by John Bender)

Floodwaters Claim Two Near Avalon

By JOHN BENDER
Sun Staff Writer

AVALON—The wife and eight-year-old daughter of the superintendent of the Avalon school district drowned in the swirling water of rain-swollen Chambers Creek Tuesday.

The bodies of Mrs. James (Phyllis) Worsham, 35, and Karen Worsham, 8, were recovered from the muddy water several hours after they went down at about 4:30 p.m.

Mrs. Worsham and an unidentified woman were apparently letting their children wade in the creek where it had flooded F.M. 55 between Avalon and Blooming Grove.

"She (Karen) apparently slipped and fell down and over she went , with the current taking her away," Ellis County Sheriff Wayne McCollum said.

Mrs. Worsham and her son, Russell, 11, went in after the girl. The boy was able to get out but the mother, attempting to tow the child back to the bank, was pulled under by the current. "Apparently she got to a clump of trees" about 75 yards downstream, McCollum said. "She was a real good swimmer, but I guess it was more than she could handle."

The other woman rushed back to Avalon, two miles away, and notified James Worsham at the school. In a desperate attempt to save his wife and child, Worsham drove to the creek and apparently lost control of his car when he hit a flooded section of the road about 50 yards from where the children had been wading. The car was found partially off the road in water up to the windshield, McCollum said.

"He went in (the creek) and stayed in there for a long time trying to find them before they were able to get him to come out," the Sheriff said.

Boyd Thornton of the Boze-Mitchell rescue unit from Waxahachie located both bodies in tall grass about 20 yards from the shore. Mrs. Worsham's body was found at 6:30 p.m. and the child's at 7:25 p.m. Justice of the Peace Herschel Smith ruled accidental drowning.

McCollum said he received the report at 4:45 p.m. and was one of the first official units to arrive. Navarro County Sheriff Jerry Shelton and Chief Deputy Harold Pitts attempted to approach the scene of the drowning from the south on F.M. 55 but were stopped by flooding on Hill Creek. They had to wait until a boat arrived to take them across Hill Creek.

Rescue units continued to arrive at the scene until 7:30 p.m. just after the second body was found. Local residents owning boats helped in the search while others brought horses to ride along the banks of the creek.

Thornton said six boats, including one from the Navarro County Sheriff's department, helped drag the creek in search of the bodies.

The bodies were taken to Boze-Mitchell Funeral Home in Waxahachie.

Nixon Campaigners Rigged tv Poll On Mining of Haiphong Harbor?

WASHINGTON (AP) — Powell Moore, a former public information spokesman for the Nixon campaign, appeared in the offices of federal prosecutors today as the Watergate grand jury reconvened.

Moore refused to comment on a report published today by columnist Jack Anderson, saying Moore and Watergate conspirator G. Gordon Liddy approached Atty. Gen. Richard Kleindienst the day after Liddy's wiretapping crew was arrested.

Moore said he hadn't known of the bugging scheme in advance. Anderson quoted anonymous surces as saying that Liddy, who was later convicted as the alleged mastermind of the Watergate operation, contacted Kleindienst on orders of campaign deputy Jeb S. Magruder. When Liddy located Kleindienst at a golf course, Moore asked to go along, Anderson said.

Then the three men—Liddy, Kleindienst and Moore—reportedly went into a back room, where Liddy told Kleindienst that one of the five men arrested inside Democratic offices early that morning was Nixon's campaign security chief.

Anderson said Kleindienst then telephoned Asst. Atty. Gen. Henry Petersen, who heads the criminal division, and told him: "Henry, I want to be sure that these people are treated as any other person would be treated who is arrested under those circumstances."

Justice Department spokesmen wouldn't comment on Anderson's story today. Liddy himself eventually was indicted with the five arrested men and E. Howard Hunt, a former White House consultant. All were convicted.

The present spokeeman for the Nixon campaign organization said today that workers for the re-election committee mailed in more than a third of the favorable responses recorded in a local television poll last year of reaction to the mining of North Vietnamese waters.

DeVan L. Shuhway, spokesman for the Committee for the Re-election of the President, said he didn't regard it as rigging the poll because "we felt the Democrats would do the same thing."

"That type of voluntary poll is the most stackable thing," he said. "When you're involved in an election, you do what you can. We assumed the other side would do the same thing."

The final result of the poll, as announced by Metromedia station WTTG, was 5,157 agreeing with Nixon's decision to mine Haiphong harbor and 1,158 disagreeing. When WTTG reported the results May 15, it said that it had received several thousand postcards that were of a suspicious nature because they apparently had been typed on the same typewriters. Shumway said "about 2,000 ballots and responses" were mailed by committee workers.

In other Watergate developments:

—Vice President Spiro T. Agnew told a news conference, "I want to make it very clear that I have full confidence in the integrity of President Nixon and in his determination and ability to resolve the Watergate matter to the full satisfaction of the American people."

There have been published reports quoting unnamed associates and friends of Agnew as saying he was upset over the break-in and bugging at the Democratic national headquarters in the Watergate and felt the President had done too little to uncover the facts.

"Let me emphasize that I do not speak through such unidentified sources," Agnew said.

Collins Scholarships Hopefuls Meet Tonight

By ROB MECKEL
Sun Staff Writer

Corsicana High School students applying for James L. Collins Scholarships are scheduled to be interviewed by the CISD board of trustees at 7:30 p.m. tonight at the CHS Commons, according to Joe Seale, administrator of the Collins Scholarship Fund.

Seale said this is a meeting of the students with the board and not until after the Collins scholars are selected will a meeting with students and parents be held.

At tonight's meeting, "things will be discussed relative to their college plans, provisions of the scholarship, policies of the scholarship...It's just another step in the board's selection process," he told The Daily Sun.

Seale said 75 students have applied for the scholarships this year—about four or five more than applied last year. He said he does not know how many scholarships will be granted or how much money is available for scholarships this year; it will be up to the board of trustees to study the scholarship fund investments and decide how much money is available.

Amounts of the scholarships in the past have been $1,200 for a full year scholarship and $600 for a half-year scholarship, Seale said, adding that a CHS senior must rank in the upper one-third of his class to be considered for the scholarship.

"Once he is eligible gradewise, such things as family finance, the youngster's citizenship at CHS, things he's taken leadership in ... like Student Council and athletics" are all considered in granting the scholarships, he said, but financial need is one of the major factors.

Seale said the board does not give consideration as to whether an applicant is black or white.

Conditions for receiving and keeping the scholarships which will be pointed out to students will include things "expected of them in the way of citizenship...grades...conduct in college...what provisions he's made to take care of his college expenses above and beyond what the scholarship provides for," and other factors. He said the board attempts to "sincerely establish those who really want to go to college" and who know why they want to go to college and what they want to major in.

City, Chamber Await Developments on Amtrak

Waiting is the "name of the game" for Corsicana, both the city government and the Chamber of Commerce, as to whether Amtrak passenger service scheduled to begin June 10 between Dallas and Houston over the Southern Pacific tracks really will start.

A hitch came to light early in April, resulting in a meeting in Dallas to discuss problems after Amtrak requested a seven hour and ten minute schedule between Dallas and Houston and the SP reportedly turned it down. The SP offered a longer schedule, claiming extensive track repairs are needed.

The next day directors of the Corsicana Chamber of Commerce "went on record" urging the railroad to expedite its negotiations and cooperate in providing a competitive time schedule.

Chamber President Don Bowen and Mayor Sue Youngblood both immediately dispatched letters to Benjamin Biaggini, president of the SP at his San Francisco office. To date, neither has received a response.

Mayor Youngblood said Wednesday she wrote "on behalf of Corsicana's 20,000 citizens, the City Commission of Corsicana unanimously requests you and your officials to negotiate a competitive-timed schedule for Amtrack service on your tracks between Dallas and Houston. This Commission urges you to be helpful in expediting this needed passenger service between the two largest cities in the Southwest."

She said she wrote Pres Biaggini his "positive leadership in clearing the way for Amtrak to begin" ...on June 10 would be appreciated by the city government and the citizens of Corsicana.

Rex Carpenter, Chamber executive vice-president, said in his letter Chamber President Bowen urged the rail line president to provide a "realistic schedule", noting that when the SP had passenger service through Corsicana between Dallas and Houston years ago it was on a time schedule or just under five hours. He further urged the SP to be less demanding in its requests to Amtrak on repairs to its track.

Since April 12, Carpenter said, there has been almost "no additional response from any individual citizen to register" a personal feeling with the Chamber. He recalled that when the Chamber earlier put out a questionnaire to sample public reaction and support of Amtrak service, about 50 replies were received. The questionnaire was published in The Daily Sun and also available at the City's three banks, but the drive was negated when the Corsicana rate was announced the next day.

"There hasn't been any special effort on the part of the Chamber's Transportation Committee to contact individuals and urge them to write the Southern Pacific," Carpenter said.

Col. Johnson To Speak, Receive Honors at NJC

Col. Samuel Johnson of Plano, one of the first 143 American POWs released from North Vietnam March 11, will be a special guest Wednesday on the campus of Navarro Junior College where his daughter, Virginia (Gini) is a sophomore student.

Col. Johnson will be honored by the college with a coffee reception after he speaks informally to McAfee Daniel's 9 a.m. English class.

Miss Johnson, a student in Daniel's class, arranged for the visit.

Col. Johnson is expected to arrive on campus about 8:30 a.m. and visit informally with students and college officials.

The coffee reception will begin at 10 a.m. in the Board Room of the Administration Building.

Col. Johnson was invited to address the NJC student Body but chose to speak to the smaller group.

He was shot down over North Vietnam April 16, 1966, and was listed as "missing in action" for about two years before his family learned he was a prisoner of war.

The Johnsons' son, Bob, attended NJC and is now a student at Texas A&M.

THE DAWN OF EASTER

Easter climaxes the most solemn week of the year and it might be an excellent idea to dwell a little while on those days we spent in sin. How long is it since we put out the last fire? How often were we careless and had our fingers burnt? How many years did we spend in torment? Wny were we there? How did we get out? It might bolster our resolutions if we did a little meditating. We might ask ourselves if we got out of it hell under our own power or if we had some outside help. It's a cinch we did not get out on our own, so where did the help come from? We feel that it won't be too much of a strain on our thinking to realize that the ultimate help came from another power greater than any that could be generated by another reformed sinner.

Most of us will agree that the source of this power lies somewhere outside of ourselves, outside any of us; that the source of this power is the same which gave us the philosophy upon which we base our new way of life.

At Eastertime, we commemorate the tragic death of a Man Who was willing to die so others might live. His teachings were not based on heroics. He counseled men to base their lives on charity, humility, obedience, faith and good works. Our own experience must have convinced us that it was only when we had woven these qualities into our pattern of living that we were released from our man-made hell. And we should be convinced that as soon as we try to live without them, we invariably condemn ourselves to the same torment we once escaped.

Easter Sunday is the day on which the Christian world observes the anniversary of the only occasiion when death met defeat; the climactic chapter to the story of Redemption.

For every one this day should have a deep significance. We were granted a special kind of redemption from slavery, and a special kind of resurrection to a joyful way of life. This is not the day when we can dismiss the restrictions we placed upon ourselves in voluntary resolutions. It is a day to reaffirm ourselves in the ways of security and hope, and bow our rebel wills in humble gratitude.

If we pause in proper reflection, Easter will have real meaning for us, and we will share in the triumph of 1973 years ago when death met its sole degeat.

—Excerpts from "The Missing Link"

May each have a joyous Easter. See you Thursday.

Editor's Note: Aunt Louise is in Memorial Hospital this week.

Dear Aunt Louise,

Most every family has had its experience with animals of one sort or another and most popular are the feline and canine variety who sneak into your life as little kittens or puppies and remain to become part of the clan.

Papa, being a typical male of his day, believed a woman's place was in the home and a pet's place was in the yard.

"Doodles" was a white Spitz puppy with luminous brown eyes, a coat of soft white fur and an ever-cold nose. He immediately became the treasure of our hearts. We children simply adorned him and the worst hari-pulling spat we ever had was over which one of us loved him the most. He was the cause of many disputations about his rightful place in our home. To the three little girls and their brother it seemed a crime for him to sleep in the garage when he so easily could occupy the foot of the bed. Our parents disagreed with us and would conduct a search before bedtime and with determined threats rout the puppy out of the house.

After the lights were safely out and no sounds could be heard but the ticking of the Grandfather Clock and Papa's soft snore, we would tiptoe down stairs with much sh-shing, carefully open a dining room window, the one that didn't stick, and raise Doodles securely through.

THE AMAZING THING was that he knew at which window to come, and at precisely what time and all the while keeping very still. He then would run to our room and find his place somewhere in a nest of warm blankets and little girls' feet.

The mornings were so hectic getting off to school no one bothered to question where the puppy had nestled the night before; however, years later Mama confessed with a knowing smile she had suspected it all along. It is hard to fool Mamas.

Doodles' most endearing trait was his patience with us when we dressed him in doll clothes. He would look at us with eyes as sad and mournful as any martyr but undeterred we fitted ribbons, skirts, bonnets and even diapers to his torso.

His patience came to an abrupt end one rainy day when we tried to make him some boots cut from an old rubber sheet. When all four paws were tied up in these cumbersome creations he retaliated with an ominous growl and from then on we kept our distance.

DOODLES COULD HAVE BEEN just plain embarrassed by our activity for I have since learned of incidents where our canine friends become oversensitive to some of our human foibles. A pertinent case comes to mind where a certain pet, residing in the Phillip Awtrey menage across the street answering to the unlikely name of "Precious", experienced a period of acute despondency due to the efforts of Dr. Awtrey's sons to give their dog a little more class by having him groomed.

Precious, so named because of his quaint but cuddly characteristics in puppyhood, was the product of a Poodle mother and a father from a good neighborhood. The result is a varigated coat of black and white shaggy fur, a Schnauzer face and a lovable disposition.

Always enjoying the sight of the boys romping with their pet, we missed the familiar scene and after a few days were relieved to know the dog was not ailing—just in hiding for, after he returned from his trip to the Beauty Parlor he took one look at his new hair-do and refused to leave the house. It took many weeks before Precious was confident enough to face his public.

PEOPLE ARE OFTEN AMAZED at tricks the dog can be taught to do but to me the most remarkable thing about the dog is his outgoing love, his fidelity to his master and his inability to distinguish the upper crust from the common herd.

Lord Byron's epitaph to his dog gives us poor old humans something to mull over:

"Near this spot
Are deposited the Remains of one
Who possessed Beauty without Vanity,
Strength without Insolence,
Courage without Ferocity,
And all the Virtues of Man without his vices."

Dear Aunt Louise,

Easter is at our doorsteps! I would like to wish everyone a nice Easter in Corsicana. I would have rather sent Easter cards but that was not possible. I live aboard the United States Navy ship "U.S.S. Ogden." We have been minesweeping in the harbors of Vietnam for two months. My ship does not carry Easter cards. Therefore, I have no way of buying them unless I was to swim to Hanoi. Ha! I'm not even sure they would have them anyway. Ha!

Funny, it seems like Easter was just yesterday. Time sure flys! I hope you and your family have a beautiful Easter. I have read so many of your articles and I have seen your picture a hundred times. Yet, I have never met you in person. Tell you what, when I come home in July I will make it a point to come by and meet you. I could even tell you an old fishing story. Ha! I have plenty of them. You're still Corsicana's favorite Aunt! May God bless you. Don't work hard and may you have many nice days.

Just a friend,
Billy W. Richards

HEW Attorney Visits Here

By ROB MECKEL
Sun Staff Writer

Joe Lindsey, superintendent of the Corsicana Independent School District, said Tuesday afternoon that Washington, D.C., attorney Jerry Luck made a brief tour of Corsicana Tuesday morning during the thunderstorm.

Lindsey said Luck arrived here at 10:15 a.m.in a car with Lacy Johnson who works with the Civil Rights Office of the Department of Health, Education and Welfare's regional office in Dallas. The tour was very brief and the men left at 11:30 a.m., Lindsey said.

The superintendent said the men came only to observe the housing patterns and "physical barriers" (such as railroad crossings, etc.) in relation to location of the schools. Lindsey said Luck did not want to take time to talk to members of the board of trustees or to the principals of the various schools; he just wanted to "observe physical outlays."

"He looked at Houston, Travis and Lincoln schools," Lindsey said. When asked, he replied that Luck did not ask to see Bowie School with a student enrollment of 290 which includes one black student in regular classes and three in special education classes.

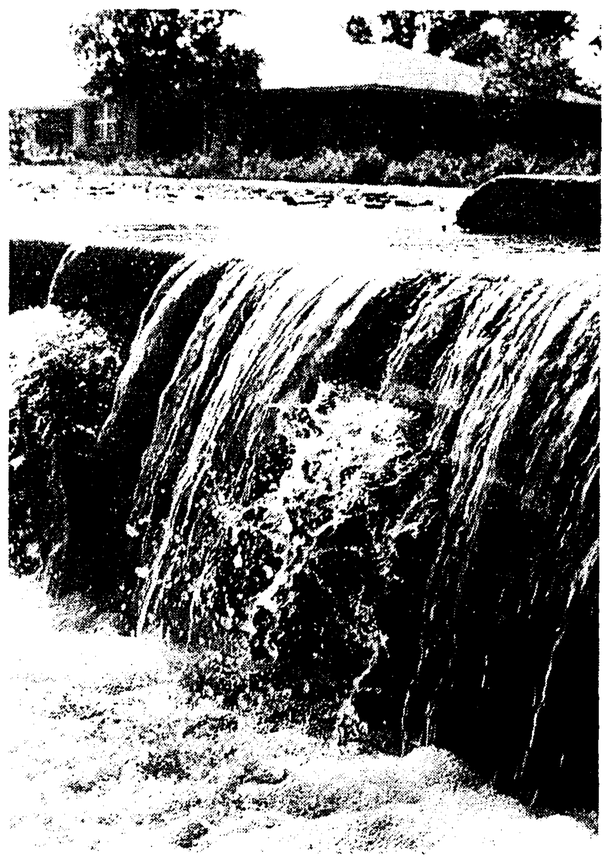

The attorney also asked to look at East Side Apartments and South Park Garden Apartments.

Lindsey said he asked Luck to comment about his observations, but the man said he would take his findings back with him and report them to his superiors.

The superintendent said he expects an administrative hearing within 60 days of April 21 when they received a letter from HEW telling CISD it was not in compliance with desegregation requirements.

"After the hearing, it will be 30 days before we receive a decision," he said.

Contrary to a promise by Lindsey, the press was not informed when Luck arrived.

Teague Council Buys Grader

BY ROB MECKEL
Sun Staff Writer

TEAGUE — The Teague City Council Tuesday afternoon voted unanimously to purchase a used Caterpillar 1112 motor grader from Dar Equipment Company.

Cost of the machine was $13,500, but $1,500 trade-in was allowed on an old machine owned by the town, leaving the balance at $12,000. Mayor Earle Long said $4,000 will be paid in 30 days and the remainder will be paid within 60 days.

Director of Public Works Bill Gilliam said he has test-driven the machine several hours and it seems to be in good condition. A representative of the Dar Company, Eddie Phillips, said it is a series "F" machine and is larger than the town's largest machine.

In other business, the councilmen also voted to change the two-hour parking zones to one-hour zones and to enforce the issuance of citations for violators. The areas to be designated for one-hour parking include Main Street, one block on North Fourth Street, one block on South Fourth Street, and possibly part of Fifth Street.

Councilman Anthony Ellison's motion passed to set overparking fines at $1 instead of the present $2 since the parking time has been reduced. He noted, however, that violators who do not pay their $1 fine will then have their case transferred to the city judge and they must pay $5 when the judge writes them a letter. The fine will be even more if the violator ignores the judge's order to pay the fine and must be brought into court by a peace officer.

Four spaces in front of the U.S. Post Office will be made into 15-minute parking zones, and one space in front of the doctor's office will be left as a loading zone.

The councilmen also discussed a letter of complaint from Mrs. Lara Craig Jaschke, 514 Elm, who noted that there are several junk cars in the neighborhood that have weeds growing around them. She said, "This is not very pleasant to look at and gives our town a bad name."

After considerable discussion, Councilman Ellison suggested that the city's attorney be asked to determine whether the city ordinance regarding unsightly materials on property can be enforced.

Also discussed was the need to do something about stopped-up culverts on the west side of town.

Councilman Earl Tindle said water is left standing in the streets after a rain because culverts at the corners of West Fourth Street and Monroe, and at West Fifth Street and Monroe need to be cleaned out.

Gilliam noted that the old culverts would probably break while being cleaned out and said it may be better to install new larger culverts when the weather gets better.

Ex-POW Plays 'Hide-and-Seek'

Members of the staff of The Daily Sun played "hide-and-seek" all morning with the English class of McAfee Daniel and its distinguished guest speaker, Col. Samuel Johnson of Plano, former POW. Col. Johnson and the class were spirited off to a country home and the public reception announced earlier by the college delayed until Daily Sun reporters were unable to contact the Colonel.

At presstime, the hide-and-seek game was still on, but it was becoming apparent that the proceedings were not intended to be "public."

Coach Is Named Italy Principal

ITALY — Head coach of Italy High School, Robert Burch, has been hired by the Italy school board as junior high principal for the 1973-74 school year.

Burch, who has been with the Italy system for 10 years, will no longer be coaching, according to Supt. George Scott.

The junior high has been without a principal for the past year, Scott said, and the school board decided at its February meeting to re-establish the position. At that same meeting, Burch was rehired as coach.

"We felt like the person should come from the system and we decided Coach Burch could handle the job," Scott said.

Since Burch accepted the new position, the school board has been looking for a new head coach. "We've interviewed a few people and we're still taking applications," Scott said.

Ennis Will Take over Ambulance Service

BY JOHN BENDER
Sun Staff Writer

ENNIS — The City of Ennis will go into the ambulance business this summer after J. E. Keever Mortuary and Bunch Funeral Home, who presently handle 90 per cent of the emergency calls in Ennis, told the City Commission Monday night they were going out of the ambulance business.

Blaming a tough new regulatory bill that is headed for approval in the Legislature, Sam Keever said: "We are putting a headache in your lap and we apologize."

The bill would require ambulances to carry more equipment, and always be manned by two highly trained persons.

"I cannot afford to send all my people to school," Keever said. "And the equipment will take up more room than the patients will."

City Manager Hayden Routh estimated it will cost Ennis between $22,000 and $25,000 this summer and approximately $50,000 next year for ambulance service. The money will come from federal revenue sharing funds, Routh said.

The Commission authorized an expenditure of $16,738 for two new ambulances which will be delivered within 30 days.

Keever said he would donate his equipment to the City and promised to help in any way as the City took over service. He gave the Commission a few suggestions about how to administer the service.

Keever said he would go out of business at midnight June 15.

The Commission set a public hearing for May 7 on a proposal to increase gas rates for Ennis gas customers after hearing a request from Lone Star Gas for a 1.2 cent per million cubic feet increase.

Charles Probst of Lone Star, which buys gas at the city limits and distributes it in the city, told the Commission that the Railroad Commission recently granted 1.2 cent increase to companies supplying gas up to the city limits. He said Lone Star Gas is asking that this increase be passed on to the customers.

"In view of the drastic developments in the cost of purchasing gas in recent months, Lone Star feels that gas cost adjustment is of serious economic concern and plays a vital role in the competitive posture of the company in continuing to obtain new gas supplies," Probst said.

Routh estimated that the increase would be about 9 cents per month for the average consumer.

The Commission asked Prbst to attend the pyblic hearing with more complete information about Lone Star's annual net profit.

Mayor W. D. Murff read a letter from the Ennis Policemen's Association asking that the petition submitted to the commission at their last meeting be withdrawn.

The petition asked a minimum starting salary of $550 per month be established for policemen. The election of a new city marshall and the hiring of a city manager were given as reasons for the request that the petition be withdrawn. Routh said that operations and salaries in every department will be examined this summer.

Because of increased requests for water from districts outside of Ennis that are supplied by the City, the Commission approved a water rate study by Forrest and Cotton engineering consultants from Dallas. Routh said the study will determine whether the present rates and the supply of water are adequate to meet the increased demands.

The Commission approved a bid of $1,967.75 from Skyline Equipment Co. of Garland on a new commercial washing machine for the hospital.

A bid of $263.30 from Casa View Caprets was accepted for carpeting the medical records room at the hospital.

The Commission also approved a resolution commending the hospital administration and staff for retaining full acreditation.

Freestone History Tour Planned

Plans are growing for the Queen of Trinity Star Historical Pilgrimage in Freestone county Saturday and Sunday, May 5-6. The tour will include Moody-Bradley House, The Dentage—home of Dr. and Mrs. Frank Dent—and Freestone County Museum, all in Fairfield; historical and contemporary arts and crafts sidewalk tour in Wortham; and the Burlington-Rock Island Railroad Museum in Teague, according to Mrs. L. R. Boyd of Fairfield.

Activities at Moody-Bradley House include lunch on the terrace, an art exhibit, bazaar, tour of the house, historical pictures of Freestone county and a colorful melodrama. Admission will be $2.50 for adults and $1.25 for children eight and under. This is for lunch and all activities at Moody-Bradley House, and entrance to The Dentage, Freestone County Museum and the railroad museum in Teague. Without lunch admission is 50 cents.

The Wortham Study Club is sponsoring a Community Arts and Crafts Fair in Wortham May 1, and will also be open for guests May 5-6 for the pilgrimage. Many stores and buildings will feature historical scenes, arts and crafts, as well as ante bellum attire. Mrs. W. R. Beaver is chairman and said an unusual and interesting sidewalk tour is planned. Recognized artists will display paintings in the M. C. Strange Community Center.

Suspect Arrested In Frost Shooting

FROST—Shirley Williams, 16, of Frost, is reported in fair condition today in Memorial Hospital after being wounded in the left chest during a shooting incident about midnight Saturday.

Bobby Leon Scaggs is in jail under $1500 bond after being arrested by Navarro County Sheriff's Deputies Bryan Dunagan and Tom Martin following the incident in which he allegedly fired a 22 caliber revolver at Miss Williams, hitting her in the left chest.

The incident occurred on a Frost street between the Mary Bisor residence and Smith's Cafe. Witnesses said Scaggs was attempting to break up a fight between his sister and Miss Williams when the girl was wounded.

Turning over the Store

Elbert Prince, left, receives the final papers in his purchase of Buck's Appliance Store from Mr. and Mrs. A. A. (Buck) Copeland, founders and operators of the store for 30 years. Prince has owned an interest and been associated with the Copeland's in the store's operation the past three years. (Sun Staff Photo)

Buck's Appliance Store Will Have a New Owner

The sale of Buck's Appliance Store, 115 South Beaton Street, to Elbert Prince was announced Wednesday by Mr. and Mrs. A. A. (Buck) Copeland, founders and operators of the firm since 1943. Prince has been associated with the Copelands and had an interest in the store for the past three years.

Copeland and his wife Lillie began the business as an appliance service firm 30 years ago during World War II at 117 West Fifth Avenue, next door to the then Ideal Theatre. Copeland did service work on refrigerators and washing machines as no new appliances were available to the domestic market during war time. A year later, he bought out a used furniture store at 119 North Beaton Street, and Buck's Appliance Store operated in that location for 21 years.

With the ending of the war and resumption of production of consumer goods, Buck's became the Westinghouse dealer here in 1946 and the RCA dealership in 1948, which the firms still has today.

Buck's Appliance Store, the owner-founders noted established several "firsts" in Corsicana.

"We brought the first black and white television to Corsicana and we also brought the first color tv set to Corsicana in about 1954," Copeland said.

He recalled that when the first black and white set was obtained, they hung it in the front window with a time clock attached to turn it on at 8 p.m. on Thursdays to get wrestling matches telecast from the Fort Worth station. It stopped traffic as people would flock to park in the street and stand on the sidewalk watching the programs. Copeland said people even brought chairs from home.

"We started out in a small building paying $25 rent and with $450 in money and we have grown to be the largest appliance dealer in this whole area. Copeland said the store had built its business on the slogan, "The Store That Service Built," because "we service everything we sell."

Copeland, in announcing sale of the firm, said he was proud of the fact that the store had enjoyed customer loyalty as a majority of its business over the years has been repeat business from satisfied customers.

"I have the utmost confidence in Elbert Prince that he will carry on the store in the tradition that we have established," Copeland said. "Lillie and I want to sincerely thank all of our loyal customers through the years," Copeland said.

The new owner, Prince, said he "considered it a privilege to be associated with Buck's over the past three years" and as the new full owner he said he will continue to give the same prompt service and offer the fine merchandise for which Buck's has long been known.

Prince invited new customers to join patrons who long have looked to Buck's for their appliance needs.

Buck's staff includes Horace McAdams, in charge of appliance service, Eddie Barber and James White, in service and installation; Joe Atkeisson in charge of tv service department; Charles Ferrell in sales with Owner-Manager Prince; and Mrs. Kathryn Kent in the office.

What a Dish!

By AILEEN CLAIRE
NEA Food Editor

The five distinct schools of Chinese cooking — Canton, Fukien, Shantung, Szechwan and Hunan — have a unifying principle. In all Chinese cooking a harmonious mixture is the goal. This means a perfect balance of sweet and sour, smooth and crunchy, hot and cold, salty and bland.

To the Chinese, food preparation is a highly developed art in which aroma, visual appeal and good taste play equal roles. Although Americans adapt Chinese recipes to suit our own palates and are guided by what ingredients are available, the goal is similar. Hunan Pork Chops, for example, get the sweet and sour treatment, indigenous to the Hunan school.

HUNAN PORK

- 1 egg, slightly beaten
- ½ cup cornstarch
- ¼ cup unsifted flour
- ¾ teaspoon salt
- 2¾ cups chicken broth or bouillon
- 6 pork chops, about 1-inch thick, trimmed of fat
- 1 pound carrots, peeled and cut into thin 3-inch long strips
- ½ cup sugar
- ½ cup red wine vinegar
- ¼ cup sweet pickle liquid
- 2 teaspoons soy sauce
- ½ cup water
- 1 bunch scallions, cut into 2-inch pieces (about 1½ cups)
- 1 cup drained sweet mixed pickles
- 4 cups hot cooked rice

Prepare batter for chops by blending together egg, ¼ cup cornstarch, flour, salt, and ¼ cup chicken broth. Heat oil in large skillet. Dip pork chops into batter. Fry in hot oil until lightly browned on both sides. Transfer browned chops to rack in shallow baking pan. Bake uncovered in 375-degree oven for 35 minutes.

Meanwhile, discard all but about 2 tablespoons of the oil left in skillet. Saute carrots until crisp-tender, about 10 minutes. Add sugar, vinegar, pickle liquid, soy sauce and remaining chicken broth. Combine remaining ¼ cup cornstarch with water and gradually stir into broth mixture. Stir constantly until mixture thickens; simmer about 3 minutes. Add scallions and pickles; simmer about 2 more minutes. Arrange pork chops on bed of rice and pour some of sauce over chops. Serve remaining sauce in small bowl. Makes 6 servings.

Fat Porky Pig has gone to a reducing salon, courtesy of pork breeders and marketers, without losing any savoriness. This is important to those who enjoy eating pork but are concerned about weight-producing calories. Those who enjoy the Oriental combination of sweet-and-sour pork will find making and eating an Apricot-skillet pork an enjoyable experience. To keep scallions crisp and preserve texture of the apricots add them at the last, just before serving.

APRICOT-SKILLET CHOPS

- 1 can (17 ounces) apricot halves
- 4 cured loin pork chops, ¾-inch thick or 1¼ pound fully cooked ham steak
- 2 tablespoons butter or margarine
- 1 tablespoon cornstarch
- 2 tablespoons light brown sugar
- 1 teaspoon grated orange peel
- ¼ teaspoon ground ginger
- 1 teaspoon dried mustard
- ¼ teaspoon salt
- 2 teaspoons lemon juice
- ¼ cup dark seedless raisins
- 1 cup sliced celery
- ¼ cup sliced scallions

Drain apricots, reserving syrup. If using electric skillet preheat at 350 degree setting. Fry pork chops (or ham) in butter on both sides until lightly browned. Place chops on warm serving platter and keep warm. Mix cornstarch and sugar; add to skillet along with peel, seasonings and lemon juice. Blend in reserved apricot syrup; cook, stirring constantly, until sauce boils ½ minute. Add raisins and celery. Reduce heat (skillet setting to 225 degrees) cover and simmer mixture about 5 minutes or just until celery is crisp tender. Add apricots and scallions. Simmer just until heated through. Pour sauce over pork chops and serve with hot noodles or rice. Makes 4 servings.

What a Dish!

By AILEEN CLAIRE
NEA Food Editor

As part of their daily routine homemakers generally spend less time in the kitchen preparing family meals. Use of convenience-type foods is increasing, but often budget-conscious cooks note that dinner mixes may save time without cutting down little on family food costs. A one-pot macaroni and cheese combination is a do-it-yourself dish. It involves a new approach to cooking macaroni. This is to mix uncooked macaroni with all ingredients rather than precooking the pasta which always means another pan to wash.

ONE-POT MACARONI AND CHEESE

- ½ cup chopped onion
- 1 tablespoon salad oil
- 2 cups milk
- 1½ cups water
- 1 teaspoon salt
- 2 teaspoons mustard powder
- 2 teaspoons Worcestershire
- 2 cups uncooked elbow macaroni (8 ounces)
- 3 cups (12 ounces) grated Cheddar cheese

Saute onion in oil in nonstick electric Dutch oven or saucepan until tender. Stir in milk, water, seasonings and macaroni. Cook and stir at 300 degree setting or over medium heat until liquid begins to simmer. Reduce heat to 212 degrees or low heat on range and simmer until macaroni is tender, about 12 minutes. Stir occasionally. When macaroni is tender, remove from heat and stir in grated cheese until melted. Turn into serving dish and serve at once. Makes about 6 servings.

A combination of baked acorn squash, sausage and instant mashed Idaho potatoes is a delicious way to get extra old-fashioned nourishment. This is a dish that takes little preparation time. The squash and sausage can cook at the same time in the oven. When the squash is baked, let it cool enough to handle, scoop out flesh, whip instant potatoes and slice sausage. Return all ingredients to squash shell and heat before serving.

IDAHO STUFFED SQUASH

- 2 medium acorn squash
- 8 servings instant mashed Idaho potatoes
- ½ cup chopped green onions
- ¼ cup butter or margarine
- ½ teaspoon nutmeg
- 4 servings of sausage, cooked
- Bread crumbs

Preheat oven to 400 degrees. Pierce squash in a few places with a fork. Bake in preheated oven for 50 minutes or until tender. Prepare instant mashed potatoes as package directs. When squash are done, let cool until easy to handle. Cut in half and scoop out seeds. Remove flesh carefully to keep shells intact. Mix together potatoes, squash, green onions, butter and nutmeg. Heap mixture into squash shells and place cooked sliced sausage on top of each with a few bread crumbs. Return to oven to heat and brown bread crumbs. Serve at once, passing brown sugar and extra butter. Makes 4 servings.

Active youngsters during winter months need added protein. One way to see that they get it is in a dessert snack filled with peanut butter.

PEANUT-SHAPED COOKIES

- ½ cup (1 stick) margarine
- ⅔ cup peanut butter
- 1 cup sugar
- 1 egg
- 2 cups sifted all-purpose flour
- ½ teaspoon baking powder
- 1 teaspoon baking soda
- ¼ teaspoon salt
- Grated rind of 1 orange or 1 teaspoon dried orange rind

Cream margarine and peanut butter. Stir in sugar and egg. Beat in remaining ingredients. Knead dough a few times on floured board. Cut dough into 40 pieces. Shape each piece with the hands into a roll 2½ inches long. Pinch in the center of the roll and place on a cookie sheet. Flatten top of cookie and round one end. Pinch the other end to resemble the shape of the peanut in the shell. With the back of a knife cut shallow crisscross line on top of cookie. Cookies should be at least 2 inches apart since they spread during baking.

Bake in a preheated 375-degree oven for 10 to 12 minutes. Makes 40 cookies.

Nova Iguacu, Brazil Is One of the Toughest, Most Violent Cities in South America

NOVA IGUACU, Brazil (AP) — This suburb of Rio de Janeiro is fast gaining a reputation as one of the toughest towns in South America.

Stories of crime and violence in Nova Iguacu appear almost daily in newspapers throughout Brazil.

Some recent highlights:

—Two armed men tried to hold up the fare collector on a city bus. Eighteen of the 20 passengers pulled out guns, shot one of the robbers dead and wounded the other.

—A truck driver called for help after a daylight stickup. Passersby converged on the fleeing gunman and beat him to death.

—A local resident strangled a prostitute he had been living with and stuffed her body into a septic tank, following an argument. A jury acquitted him, on grounds he was "defending his honor."

—The Nova Iguacu "death squad," a vigilante group said to be made up of off-duty policemen, killed 250 local underworld figures in a single year in an attempt to "clean up" the town.

—A delivery man was held up at gunpoint by a man riding a horse.

"Nova Iguacu has been the victim of a campaign of sensationalism," says Police Chief Luiz Gonzaga. "Of course we have crime. But our rate is lower than that of Rio or New York."

He did not, however, have the rate figure for Nova Iguacu.

A notice outside the chief's door asks civic-minded citizens to blow the whistle on "disorderly persons, bums, drug addicts, people walking around armed, robbers wanted by the authorities, numbers racket headquarters and bordellos."

Located 15 miles from downtown Rio, Nova Iguacu grew in population from 33,000 in 1920 to 146,000 in 1950 to 750,000 today. People from all over Brazil streamed into the city to find work in the prosperous Rio area. Public services could not keep pace with the uncontrolled and unexpected growth.

As a result, Nova Iguacu today lacks paved streets, piped-in drinking water, telephones, schools, hospitals and police protection.

Passengers Pay Taxes to Relocate Noise-ridden Citizens around French Airport

ROISSY, France (AP) — The French are building Europe's largest airport in this flatlands of beet fields and peaceful villages near Paris. If you pass through on vacation, you'll have to pay a tax to protect the villagers from jet roar.

A government decree, said by officials to be the first for a major airport anywhere in the world, provides for the tax on every departing passenger to help pay for relocating people who don't want to live near the airport or for soundproofing the homes of those who want to stay.

The government imposed the tax because of pressure from groups in the Roissy area and in Villeneuve le Roi, a town at the end of the main runway at Orly Airport south of Paris.

Villeneuve residents have been living under the roar for a dozen years, with a jet taking off or landing at Orley every 90 seconds at peak periods.

"We don't want to end up like the poor people at Villeneuve," says Pierre Bories, a 43-year-old lawyer who heads a community organization in the Roissy area 17 miles north of Paris.

He estimates a quarter of a million people in 45 towns and villages around Roissy will suffer "noise nuisance" when the airport takes over from Orly as France's chief gateway.

Some villages such as Le Mesnil Amelot date from the 15th century. Its 560 inhabitants will be less than a mile from the end of a runway, and the village may have to be abandoned.

The Rossy airport is a sprawling complex one-third the area of the city of Paris and much larger than Kennedy International Airport in New York. It has futuristic architecture and by 1985 will be able to handle 60 million passengers a year.

The $355-million first stage going into operation next spring will handle 10 million passengers a year by 1977, officials predict, with a plane landing or taking off on an average of every three minutes around the clock.

The noise tax began last February for travelers from Orly and the third major Paris airport, Le Bourget.

NCAC To Change Name?

Consideration of a name change for the organization will be among the agenda items up for discussion before the board of directors of the Navarro County Action Committee, according to Executive Director Jewrome Vacek.

He has noted in previous meetings that a change in name to something other than NCAC would allow for programs expansion and induce program participation by areas outside of Navarro County.

Vacek also noted that "program modification" is also on the agenda. He would not elaborate on this item and said simply that it will be brought out at the meeting.

The board is also expected to discuss utilization of NCAC vehicles, and bus arrangements for East Side students next school year. Budget reviews and other regular business items are also ont the agenda.

The meeting will be at 7:30 p.m. tonight at the NCAC Training Center, 200 S. Seventh St.

POLICE

A burglary in which only a jar of pennies was taken from the home of Mrs. Larry Gilliam, 1201 West Fourteenth Avenue, while she was picking up her children from schoool, was quickly solved when the "crime" was traced to a nine-year-old neighborhood boy.

Police Chief Don Massey said from tracks found in the mud below a window where the youngster had climbed into the house, and reports from kids who had seen a small boy leaving the home, Officers Les Cotten and Neal Baggett located the nine-year-old at his home and recovered the jar containing $2.49 in pennies and 33 cents worth of bubble gum and eight cents worth of toys he had bought at a neighborhood grocery store.

After talking with the youth's mother and returning the recovered pennies to Mrs. Gilliam, officers returned to headquarters and made out a juvenile delinquency report.

Police investigated a shoplifting at Ray's Discount Store, 215 North Beaton Street, where owner Ray Goldman discovered that a shoplifter had taken a new $19.98 pair of size 7 boots out of a shelf and replaced them with his old boots. Goldman told investigating Officer Les Cotten four men were shopping in the store and one was believed to have taken the boots while a sales clerk was busy waiting on another member of the group who bought some houseshoes.

A prowler complaint at the Betty Dickerson residence, 1215 W. Summit Ave., was answered at 10 p.m. after the family heard a scratching noise on a backdoor screen. No suspect was found.

Mill Blaze Finally Put out

Corsicana firemen finally extinguished all pockets of fire Thursday morning at the old Paymaster Cotton Oil Mill, East Seventh Avenue at South Seventh Street, which had been fought off and on since shortly before noon Wednesday.

The old mill, abandoned for several years, is in the process of being torn down.

Fire Chief Charlie Tieman said the fire was believed to have started from a cutting torch being used by demolition workmen on the roof which caused a fire originally in the "dog house," a room-like enclosure over the old conveyor belt system. Pockets of fire spread downward into storage bins caked with cottonseed meal and hulls.

Firemen had to bring the 65-foot aerial ladder truck in play to carry hose to the upper reaches to spray water into the fire and climb beams.

Chief Tieman said the fires didn't cause a lot of damage as the old building was being torn down. He said it was hard to fight since the areas of fire in the storage bins were hard to reach and it was difficult to saturate the caked meal on the bins.

Firemen answered the first alarm at 11:42 a.m. and worked about two hours, and then had to make call-back runs at 5:31 and 9:50 p.m. Wednesday and a final run at 7:14 a.m. today.

A grease fire at the Robert Bush residence, 2315 W. Park Ave. had been extinguished by Bush using baking soda when firemen arrived on the scene at 8:14 p.m. Wednesday. Fire Commander B.G. Clay said the blaze from the grease scorched cabinet around the ventahood over the electric range.

Sheriff Checks out Stranded Motorist Call

Sheriff Jerry Shelton and others with a boat were en route at 11 a.m. Thursday to the Trinity River bridge on South Highway 287 receiving a report a motorist was stranded on top of car trapped by high water.

"Sheriff Shelton has just left and gone by Neal Haynie's who is taking his boat and that's all we know right now," Mrs. Smith advised at presstime today.

Mrs. Cohagen Tells of Duties

Mrs. Lenora Cohagen, Wolf Brand Chili Co. secretary, in observance of "National Secretary Week" discussed the duties of a secretary at the noon luncheon of the Rotary Club Wednesday.

"Since 1952 'National Secretary Week' has been set aside for recognition to be given to the secretary who does a good job for her employer and to remind the secretary of her responsibility to her employer," she said. "A secretary is a confidential assistant to an executive, makes decisions within a scope and will do anything that will save her employer time and money," she added.

She pointed out that the duties of the secretary include taking dictation, transcribing dictation, answering telephones, checking the mail, filing, making reports, making public contacts, keeping records, typing and bookkeeping.

Other secretary duties, she pointed out, include the executive's personal work, chores done on company time, and making travel arrangements.

She explained that the U.S. Department of Labor has estimated that 200,000 new secretaries are needed each year.

She pointed out that a secretary should be attractive, confidential and efficient.

"A secretary's job offers job satisfaction and security," she said.

She concluded with the punch line "A secretary should look like a girl, act like a lady, and work like a horse."

Guests of the club included local secretaries and other guests including June Graham, Mrs. Billie Albrecht, Mrs. Bette Pennington, Jack Ross, Betty Ross, Polly Hopson, Joyce, McKee, Terry Ross (NJC student Rotarian), Joe Lindsey, Genetha Thomas, Wanda Watson, Bill Froman and Elizabeth NcKorkel.

In other business the club accepted by transfer a new member Bill Froman.

Adopted Children Can Receive Checks

There are some rule changes affecting children in the new Social Security Law. A major change is that a child who is getting checks may continue to receive checks even though he is adopted by someone not related to him. Previously, a child's check stopped if he was adopted by someone other than his uncle, aunt, grandparent or stepparent. Now, an entitled child gets checks even if he is adopted by complete strangers and even if his name is changed. This explanation comes from Daivd Helmer, Branch Manager for social security in Corsicana.

Another rule allows a child to get payments on the work record of his grandparent, if both his natural parents are dead or disabled and he is lving with and supported by the grandparent at the time the grandparent dies, retires, or becomes disabled.

The Congress added this rule to take care of children who would look to grandparents for support. This rule is effective January 1973. A new application on behalf of the child must be made at the social security office.

A third change affects students who are in school or college and reach age 22 before finishing school. The new law allows checks to be continued to the end of the school term after attainment of age 22. If the school is on a semester or quarter system, checks continue to the end of the semester or quarter. If the school is not on such a system, checks continue through the 2nd month after the birthday. This rule is effective in January and applies only to undergraduate work. If the student already has a bachelor's degree from a college or university, his checks stop at age 22 as before.
